Additional Information

The National Commission on Military, National and Public Service is an 11-member bipartisan commission tasked for the first time in American history, with comprehensively and holistically reviewing the Selective Service System, along with military, national, and public service. The Commission hopes to ignite a national conversation about ideas of service as it develops recommendations for the Congress, the President, and the American public by March 2020. The Commission was formally established on September 19, 2017 and will formally disband in September 2020. While unpaid, course or independent study college or university credit may be arranged per individual school policies.
